CQG Announced as Corporate Sponsor of the Australian Securities Traders Association

Sydney, December 9, 2010 – CQG, Inc. and the Australian Securities Traders Association (ASTA) today announced that CQG, the industry-leading order execution, charting, and analytics provider for global, electronically-traded securities, has committed to being a corporate sponsor of ASTA through 2012. As the founding corporate sponsor, CQG has supported ASTA during its creation and will continue to support the organization’s mission both financially and through in-kind contributions.

“ASTA’s initiative to create a much-needed voice within the professional trading community will benefit the entire industry,” said Leighton Andrew, CQG’s Head of Sales for Asia Pacific. “As a market data provider and ISV, we view the community of professional traders as an important part of our business, and we look forward to a continuing strong relationship with ASTA and its members.”

ASTA currently has more than 50 members who trade a significant portion of the Australian Securities Exchange futures volume. Members include proprietary trading firms, individuals with proprietary memberships, sophisticated investors, and other professional traders.

ASTA has been formed to facilitate communication between members and the wider financial markets community. ASTA members have vast experience and significant presence in financial markets both in Australia and abroad. ASTA’s large and diverse membership will make it easier for the financial markets community to communicate with Australian traders.
